"Well, General Piggott, and . . . somebody pulled it?"

What deep, dark drama transpires within the walls of those identical Laketown split-levels? Our stars, John Shepherd, hip philosopher and leader of the "bright people," and actress Nona Candler will show you as our story unfolds.

For some reason Russian architecture is not "famous"--and that reason is Russian architecture!

Decadent capitalist cartoonist, Arnold Roth, in

MOSCOW

Arnold Roth, our Moscow secret agent, tows... errantly (and trembly) over a background of the Kremlin Outer Wall.

We sent our man Arnold Rezn to Moscow to do a cartoon feature on that city for us. He had no idea of what happened to the last one sent in that direction — French Powers. He searched his doubts and fears by penning out that the Russians didn't shoot Powers, did they? The fact that he got in and out of East Berlin without any formal assistance himself realized him and he agreed to go back made the stipulation that the like Powers, wasn't about to die for an idea. He claimed if anybody so much as looked cross-eyed at him and tell a lie.

"Landed in a blizzard," He wrote. "You think you have it tough in winter, here, spring never comes." He got a hotel room deep in the heart of Red territory and began to look about for his story. "I've requested a day and a night in a small village but there's not much hope," one of his unappreciated old MAFIA says. "If you get pasty, I'm told, Khrushchev comes along and hits you on the head with that same shoe."

As a part of the trip we'd asked him to give us a report on the state of our comrades in the humor game. His answer: "I dropped around the cities of the RECKLESS. The Soviet art Capitalist can boast with impudence. The results may be paying and Soviet technology booming but there is one place Russia is behind us and that is in cartooning.

With this bit of modesty Arnold agrees his survey of the situation. If any in Moscow, he reports, "Moscow is much different than East Berlin. East Berlin is still in the grips of Stalinism while Moscow is 'brightened' by Khrushchev but I still feel as sorry for Moscowites" as I do for the Moscovites. Still the same why about Arnold because no one seemed interested in bussing him. He says he didn't go much as get a glimpse of the cracked NKVD.

With his famous nose for news, Arnold previewed Moscow putting the real story (as these cartoons indicate) on the Russians in general and Moscow in particular. According to him, Moscowites are generally pretty friendly, even to Capitalist War Blowers like himself. He found someone to take his picture while he stood against a billboard with "Russia is a father of my family," Arnold reports.

Having decided that he had seen every thing of importance in Moscow, ("Great place to visit," reports Roth, "but I wouldn't want to live there.") Arnold decided to leave. He checked out of his hotel, had his luggage and his hand Telecopier sent back to his plane. With suspicious males clutching on his pudgy little hands and noses of the same in his mind, he set forth to the plane aware in the knowledge that in the week he had spent in Moscow he had seen everything worth seeing and that would over in worthwhile seeing in Moscow. And so his plane fled into the sunset leaving Moscow far behind. Next week the Russians shot up

THE NEW FORUM

By George Kings

Thank you very much. You're very kind. It's certainly nice to be here. I must confess this is my first time on a night club floor—second time when I had maybe a little too much—was accidentally at a party, sis, and I was really pooping it down—for free, why not?—anyway, these girls were dancing, great little chorus girls, and I figured I'd join them. I like synchrony and I like being symmetrical.

And that was the other time I was on a night club floor.

But this is a new experience. I mean, standing up here and talking and getting paid for what you're putting out, isn't it? Man? Man? — Man? — He was here just a moment ago. I saw him... — according... You're probably just as surprised as I am. He was my host, I mean. I mean, those of you who know me as a sociologist in my field, I have a certain reputation... which I'm trying to live down, if I've achieved any degree of fame. It comes from my TV show, Matt the Bookworm, which despite some pretty tough opposition, has managed to attract an audience of several people. Anyways, the boys there William Morris caught me on the tube and we got together at the Stage and checked out my talk, and as here I am.

Why not? — Uh-huh... well, you're certainly entitled to your opinion, sir. I hate a woman who can't handle her booze... — As I was saying, why not? Things have changed. Night clubs used to be palaces of joy where you'd boozie it up, have at the smoke for a better look at the long and lumpy bodies of the ladies, and when the comic comes on with his string of mega relatives, you'd assume a peek at the girl you were with to check her reactions. If she laughed at the most dirty ones, you figured maybe the evening wasn't a total loss. Of course, you couldn't be sure. I know a gal who used to laugh at the foulest... — easily shall you shouldn't even tell your mother. Turns out, though, that's what she was... a leacher.

But today's tonight — night clubs are different. And that's why I'm here. The time is over now. Forum.

I mean, why are you all here? I mean, apart from the fact that your TV set is on the table. Because you're hungry for knowledge... — For pity's sake, comment on world affairs... And you've come to the right place. If you yearn for information on inflation, suppression, subversion, the latest American nation, educational Color Controversy, pacification, the need for space "in" — anything — well, pal, you've got a problem. Nobody should ask for such troubles.

But if you're a masochist and there's no help for you (your psychiatrist's a sadist), then you're just where you belong. Oh, the U.S. is okay, as far as it goes, but hardly where mankind's life are resting on top of the agenda. Oh, and that sort of stuff are solved Freshwater... — and maybe More's not Big Hair-managed, but with a few dinks under your belt, who cares? Right! Right! Speaking of the U.S., what about Adam Stevens? I think he was much funnier when he was running for president. But this one job—what with Leno and Gates—he hasn't put a good one in a long time.

Anyway, that's why I'm here. I can speak freely. Sure, I can say just about anything on my TV show. But I'll tell you freely, an occasion I've been apprehended, once, when I was giving the real story about Brezhnev's activities in Africa—you know, the living. And then that time when... — well, I won't go into it now... It had to do with the Queen and their secret family ties. But here, in a night club, I can say exactly what's on my mind.

More social progress is being made in clubs than anywhere else in America, with the possible exception of the James Birch Society. I said James Birch Society, not John Birch. The members of the James Birch Society are residents of the town of James, Kentucky, where mission is to plant birch trees throughout the state. They differ from the John Birch Society in that, while the John Birch people feel that America is a republic and not a democracy, the James Birch folks believe that America is neither a democracy nor a republic, but rather an arbor.

Only night clubs have achieved this sort of progress. Integration? Why, one of our country's most popular new comedy stars is a night club kid, Dick Gregory—a Negro. Who knew? Some day there may even be Jewish comedians.

I recently learned, because so many of our funny men are Jewish — Jack Benny, George Burns, Groucho Marx, Barry Goldwater, Goldwater, he's really a Jew!

Natural the success of cerebral comedians like Mort Sahl, Shelly Manne, Nichols and May and Bob Newhart has put a scare in the more traditional comics, most of whom are named Jackie. These scoundrels about in lies and cover-storying haven't served them well in the past, but what of the future? Some of them have already begun a cautious revision of their material. Perhaps you've heard Jackie Kaup's routine about his mother-in-law who's been intercepting mail from Little Rock? ("she wanted to feel at home so she ordered a black-and-white sofa"). Or Jackie Bitterman's bit about her son's cleaning up their ever-contaminable C ("he's supposed to be a phallic symbol and maybe subconscious...").

This is a forward step, but it seems to me that our old-fashioned comedy will suffer such of the slanders of their Borscht Belt background appetites and others about the New Forum or the New Frontier (Quahog?). There's plenty of material around, what with Cuba and the Congo and California and all the other cities.

For example, tonight I'd like to talk to you about—you'd better take notes, because on Friday there'll be a quiz...

First of all, let's discuss Governor Black's plan for air raid stations in every parish. This is certainly a dramatic way of showing the Russians we mean business, especially in New York. — END
